

Graphene 2012: program online

Talks by 100 speakers on the global Graphene technology revolution

Madrid (Spain): 16th March 2012

The Graphene 2012 program, the International Conference on Graphene, to be held in Brussels (Belgium), from April 10-13 is now online.

Internationally renowned speakers will present the latest trends in the field and the global Graphene technology revolution. The Graphene 2012 program includes more than 100 speakers from all over the World, presentations from both research and industry.

Extensive thematic workshops in parallel, one-to-one meetings, and a significant industrial exhibition with 30 institutions featuring current and future Graphene developments will be highlighted at the event. The one-to-one meetings (brokerage event) is also being organized on the 12th of April, but bookings are assigned on a "First Come - First Served" principle. The longer one waits, the higher the possibility that interesting co-operation partners are fully booked Graphene 2012 is now an established European event, attracting global participants intent on sharing, exchanging and exploring new avenues of graphene-related scientific and commercial developments. Until now, the best, among many others, represented countries are United Kingdom, Germany, Belgium, Spain, France and United States.
